ROUGH OYSTER TRIP.

The Governor's Party Encounter High Wind Going Up the Bay.

THE GOVERNOR AT TANGIER.

He is Cordially Received, Makes a Speech and is Taken With the Islanders-Details of the Cruise.

Governor O'Ferrall and Auditor Marye, of the Board of Chesapeake and its Tributaries: Mr. Zollicoffer, secretary of the board; Captain Baylor, Captain Doyle, of Staunton, and Mr. John B. Danforth returned from their trip over the oyster ration with a Dispatch reporter, that his what was necessary, if anything, to mark the boundary-line between Virginia intelligently any question affecting the evaler interest that might arise in future, and to investigate the complaints against aptain Read that had been lodged with

The Richmond Grays Veteral calls, Governor O'Ferrall made sant little speech of about fifteen e, promising to come back in the il to give the good people of Tanmore elaborate talk upon the politices of the day. The Governor and (except Colonel Marye, who was fortable night aboard ship, INSPECTED THE POCOMOKE.

At 4 A. M. Saturday we weighed anchor off Tangler, where we took on board Colonel Marye, much improved by his night ashore. Captain E. L. Crockett, of Tangler, brought Colonel Marye out to the ship in his boat. He had a magnificent rockfish (striped base), weighing fifty-eight pounds, which he presented to the Governor. This fish had been caught the night before in a pound-net on the bay side of the island, belonging to Captain T. E. Parker. After a most players.

A RICH TREASURE. A RICH TREASURE.

In conclusion our correspondent, who is an up-country landsman, says:

"Not half of the Virginians know what a noble possession the Commonwealth has in the 'Chesapeake and its tributaries.'

Untold wealth lie hidden in the depths of these waters. Let us be thankful that Virginia has now a Governor who is entirely allow to her interests in this direction; that we have a Legislature that understands the situation, and that we have

WISHED THEY WERE BACK.

From what could be gathered on the outside it appears that Captain Hudgins, out of regard for the comfort of his guests, advised against going out Thursday night, but was overruled, and pretty hearly the entire party wished themselves back on dry land before the night was over. One of the voyagers told a Dispatch reporter confidentially that when the storm was at its height he looked through a dead light, and there was a mass of green water rushing by at the rate of WHY THEY MET.

WHY THEY MET.

The Dispatch's Tasley correspondent telegraphs aneat the investigation of the charges against Captain Read;

"When Captain Read came on board the steamer the islanders presented their charges against him, accusing him of neglect of duty in frequently leaving the sound and remaining away for days and weeks. The Captain replied in strong language, abusing the lelanders. When Commander Hudgins, of the Chesapeake, suggested that the captain of the boat that is to police Tangler sound should be required to live on Tangler Island, Captain Read made a reply that greatly incensed the islanders, but they managed to control their tempers in the presence of the distinguished company. The conference took place in the drawing-room of the steamer, and threatening at times to be strong."

THE TRIP DOWN THE RIVER.

Colonel Craighill Missed the Party-Pleasant Trip, However.

Colonel William P. Craighill, United States engineer, in charge of the Jamesriver improvement, who was to have joined a party of prominent citizens of Richmond on a trip down to Dutch Gap, and to have explained his work upon the channel, especially about the Randolph flats, barely missed the delegation of invited guests who went down last evening. The Colonel was quite anxious to show to the Richmonders his plans for improving the stream, and to point out to them as well the work that has been done. It is the object of Colonel Craighill to clean out the channel so that vessels drawing twenty-five feet of water can come into this port. To accomplish this come into this port. To accomplish this will, of course, require the expenditure of arge sums of money, but it would mean

More than three weeks since the SPRING MILLINERY RECEPTION—but a stranger looking in would think each day first-view day. Everything fresh and artistic to suit the wonderful varieties of taste, together with the magic touch that keeps qualities high and prices low.

Never have we shown such a variety of Fine Goods. Over 350 Trianmed Hats and Bonnets to select from, comprising most every desirable shape and color.

SPRING AND SUMMER OF '94. UNTRIMMED HATS.

We congratulate you upon the return We have just received another large consistence of the genial spring season. It is always a pleasant relief to exchange the heavier and more sombre apparel of winter for the lighter and brighter wear of spring. But the pleasure is greatly enhanced when the styles and colors upon which fashion has set her seal are as attractive and tasteful as they are the present season. The very best advertisement of our goods would be the goods themselves, could they be sent around for general inspection. As this is impossible we fall back on the faithful type to assist us to describe in some measure the chief features of our spring stock.
